

I understand that the discussion is to give a greater percentage of control of the media to one company. What ever happened to free speech??? We might as well be in a fascist country so that the person(s) with the most money and power can, through news and music, control the propaganda that is disseminated to the public. Clear Channel is already doing a great job in that department. How much more power do you want to give them?